

INFORMAL SETTLEMENTS

2010/11 – 2013/14

BACKGROUND

Commissioned by the Department of Performance Monitoring and Evaluation in the Presidency in December 2013 in order to help assess the extent to which government could rely on data prepared and presented by various departments about the delivery of services to communities and households living in informal settlements after it was reported that the target set for service delivery had been achieved.

CONTEXT

In setting its delivery standards, the Department of Human Settlements had defined a serviced site as having two or more of tenure, water or sanitation, and a house as a top structure

BASED ON THESE DEFINITIONS
DHS CONCLUDED THAT

393 000

INDIVIDUAL HOUSEHOLDS HAD RECEIVED
THESE BENEFITS BETWEEN
APRIL 2010 & FEBRUARY 2014
AND THAT GOVERNMENT HAD THEREFORE MET ITS COMMITMENT TO PROVIDE

400 000

HOUSEHOLDS WITH UPGRADED SERVICES
AND SECURITY OF TENURE BY THE TARGET DATE

±248 000 TOP STRUCTURES
WERE DELIVERED

THERE WERE NEARLY
240 000 UNIQUE INSTANCES
OF THE DELIVERY OF WATER

THERE WERE NEARLY
240 000 INSTANCES
OF THE PROVISION OF TENURE

FINDINGS

- Review of the data sources showed material differences in the definition of informal settlements.
- These led to very different estimates of the number of such settlements and the households counted as being in 'informal circumstances'.

ONLY 240 000
UPGRADES, AGAINST THE CLAIMED DELIVERY OF 400 000 UPGRADES
